The City of Dixon is developing a Local Roadway Safety Plan (LRSP) to guide future street improvements and make everyday trips safer and more comfortable for everyone.

What is an LRSP?

An LRSP is a safety-focused plan that helps cities evaluate how people currently travel, understand where and why crashes happen, and recommend projects, policies, and programs to help reduce serious injuries and fatalities. The LRSP is not a construction project or a traffic enforcement program, but rather a roadmap that helps the City apply for future funding and implement high-priority safety projects.

Why This Plan Matters

Community needs and safety priorities change over time. The LRSP will help the City better understand how people are currently moving, and where people's safety concerns are focused. The LRSP process will uncover these priority locations by analyzing crash data and gathering detailed feedback from the Dixon community.
